Founded in 1991, Site Design is a full-service civil engineering firm with an emphasis on service.

Over the years, we have approached our own development much in the same manner as we approach the development of your property. As engineers, we evaluate land and structures. As people, we know that the development of your property is-in effect-the development of your business. We will never force you to choose between quality work and a deadline. Our goal is creative problem-solving in a team environment. The result is the highest and best use of each piece of property and structure we touch.

Combining the right technology with a thoughtful approach, we are here to assist you in all phases of land development. From initial planning and surveying to complete site infrastructure, permitting and construction inspection – we are here to maximize your resources and help you make decisions that will serve you well for years to come.

Site Design's team members were carefully chosen for the depth and breadth of their professional experience, as well as their attention to clients' needs. Our advocates include developers, contractors, architects, attorneys and entire communities, but focus is always on the individual.

“Communication is really just as important as technical skill. You can't apply what you know unless you understand what the client needs. Then, our job is to thoroughly weigh and present the options that will be the most valuable for them.”
